Yup. The 68uf caps in the woofer section had just gone in the afternoon before, and being Black Gates, will probably be breaking in till Thanksgiving. (Actually, they're the wrong series for speaker xo's, but they're the right value, so in they went!)Hey Wayne, what value should be in there, given that the mid is 16 ohms, not 8? I suspect something more like 33uf, but I'm guessing, as usual. If I'm going to buy the right series Black Gates, I'd like to get the values right, too.I still have a 22uf cap to upgrade, and then maybe the coils. (What are the values on the three coils, BTW?) I think I'd like to split the xo into two pieces so I can drive the bottom with a larger amp, and I'm not sure how that will affect the parts complement, if at all.From the "just can't ever let things be" files . . .
