china is becoming hugh and high quality quicker than we realize. They have built more highways in the last year or so than we have EVER. They are not in debt as a nation, and are cash rich. (the government, not the people) Labor is peanuts there. Even more remarkable, we and most other countries outsource to them, and they have access to technology with little or no R& D....Pretty sweet setup, they will probably run this country someday. Look at the sad state the dorks that run this country have made of it!
