Hi Bill! I've been eyeing the Ella for about a year now, and am interested in your long term impressions. A 50 watt p-p has always been more my thing than a 2.5 watt set. I have an assembled Foreplay that I was going to match with Paramours, but never got that far. Functions correctly, but a little hum I can't kick with some amps. Know anyone that needs a discounted F-play? Anyway, a meaty p-p really expands what you can use for speakers. What have you found that really works with the Ella? I'm considering 7 Pi Pro's. I have four of the 2226J's I've thought and thought about using. The more I think the more I want a single pair of 2226H so I can build a little 8 ohm corner horn. I'm thinking smaller due to all the frequency response issues with a dual woofer design and the shear SIZE. I actually felt bad when I showed the 4648-8 cabs to my girlfriend/future horn lover. :^} I can compromise a little! Well, maybe.... Thanks for any update on Ella and speaker matching experience. Take care! Jerrod
