Option 2: subs in the floor of course...

Oh the build, Paint is kicking my @$$, it's my fault I picked a glossy paint and pretty much everything that could go wrong did go wrong. In other words i'm stuck in wet sanding hell. Which is ok since the rest of my parts are on order with Wayne and it looks like I'll have everything some time in early September. If I had everything already I most likely would have stopped at bare MDF, and started using them until my wife made me finish them.

I'll post a few more pics this evening there's been some small progress.
