Well; thats true; the neighbor woman next door who is so nervous about visiting that she always upsets the apple cart is pretty funny but that is just replay of old vaudeville jokes.I see the husband as a decent, long-suffering guy who despite the wifes frantic need to put on airs and present as royalty still loves her and is willing to tolerate her eccentricities as a result. That premise goes back to W.C. Fields and The Bank Dick, the hen-pecked nice guy husband.. I see a lot of folks who live in similar marraige dynamics.Most guys are whipped in some way or other; if it isn't apparent then it's subtle, but it's there.They'll admitt it if you press them.
