Personally, I'd wait for maybe a year before I buy a tablet. It's new and a lot of problems will surely surface (like the issue with the iPad nanos snapping into half when they were first released). The most obvious problem with the iPad is that it doesn't have built in USB ports.

The Galaxy I think is more expensive but it's a bit smaller than the iPad. I've read the reviews and they say it's pretty good.

I also heard HP is coming out with one and Toshiba too. Maybe you can wait for them to come out and watch the price drop before getting one?
