Hi Not shy, just his mastery of English is limited. It is a lot better than my Hungarian (like I have none) I will however contact him and see if he would join the forum. If not that then make it possible to contact him.

The full project is posted under group build for any who want to check it out. He even made the tone arm. When you see the photos you will understand the quality of his project. BTW the arm is a string (mono-filament) suspended magnetically stabilized one.
