I for one, am always eager to take part in any event such as GPAF.Tulsa and our general region has been long over due for such an event.I enjoy the grass roots "Woodstock" feel of the event, as Wayne put it.But, my concern with moving to Dallas and possibly growing the attendance dramatically. Is, the Woodstock feeling would no longer exist. That it would morph into something much more zoo like in nature.And ultimately, it would become about the money.The one on one personal communication with the designer and audio enthusiast, would be hard to support under such conditions.The fun and thrill would be gone for me if the event grew too large and impersonable.But, count me in for now where ever you hold the event.Norris
