That's a great Idea. That sort of thing is in the works. I dont think the intention is cut the humor out of life. Most places hosting more than one board allow the general board to slide off topic a little bit. The folks with specific quewtions and comments will go directly to a board that is specific to the question. I can speak for myself and say I love all the humor and some of the cutting remarks. I just dont think there needs to be any name calling or public bashing here. It's not fun or to anyones advantage to talk trash, have your post axed or have to delete them. It's Christmas ! Enjoy a few things right.Bill
