Subject: Re: What are the effects of cabinet volume on sensitivity??
Posted by Wayne Parham on Thu, 16 May 2002 16:01:52 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Neither vented or sealed boxes raise the average efficiency of the driver. An underdamped alignment will increase bass output over a narrow range, but that creates a peak that is generally undesireable. The main objective of the cabinet is to provde a nice, flat response curve down to the cutoff point.