Subject: Jupiter Beeswax
Posted by radiohead on Thu, 12 Aug 2004 17:55:29 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

A man I trust told me yesterday that Jupiter Beeswax capacitors actually used bees wax. I checked it out for myself and sure enough, they do. I wonder if bees wax is hooey hype or not? I wonder if longer lasting oils and poly compounds aren't really better. Then again, maybe bees wax is a magic elixir just like they say. BTW, how long do these capacitors last?
http://www.jupitercondenser.com/jupitercapacitors.htm

Subject: Re: Jupiter Beeswax
Posted by hurdy_gurdyman on Fri, 13 Aug 2004 14:16:24 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I bet that's one "sweet" sounding capacitor.Dave ;^)

Subject: Sweet as honey!
Posted by Wayne Parham on Fri, 13 Aug 2004 18:50:24 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message