Have any of you ever used Youtube instructional videos to help you along with your DIY projects? I always forget to look for videos even if I use the internet to find instructions. There are a lot of quality instructional videos that do a much better job of explaining things than written directions do.

Hi, I haven't, but I have gone on the WEB to find diy info on several types of projects. Often professionals will have gone into great detail in how to do something. It can be quite valuable.

I have watched some videos on YouTube that have been instructional. They aren't normally for craftsman type projects, but rather my own interests and hobbies. Most of the videos are really good, and do actually often help me.
