I've had a bad cold and sometimes when I swallow I can feel fluid in my ears. It's disgusting. I hope it goes away soon or I will be forced to see a doctor.

I've had that happen to me before as well, but generally only with a BAD cold. Mild colds usually leave my ears alone, if that makes any sense. Hope you feel better soon.

Is it fluid buildup in your ears that makes them pop every time you swallow? If so, that happens to me every year when allergy season hits. Audioaudio90, hope you feel better soon. Might want to have your ears checked out just so they don't end up infected!

My ears clog up when I have a cold. I don't know what causes that. I've never really discussed it with a doctor, because it goes away when the cold is gone. Fluid in the ears sounds more serious. Maybe you need to see if the doctors can put tubes in them, so that they can drain.
