Subject: Decline in creativity?
Posted by cwemoy on Tue, 26 Jul 2016 04:21:12 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Do you miss Prison Break, 24, Lost or Revenge as I do? It seems to me like there is downward trend in the quality of TV series. You can hardly get one with say, 22 episodes, or can you?

Subject: Re: Decline in creativity?
Posted by mamoss on Tue, 26 Jul 2016 04:37:36 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I am not sure whether to call it a decline in creativity but I wish we'd have TV series with at least 18 episodes. There are many of them with just 10 to 13 episodes per season. Has it anything to do with cost of production?

Subject: Re: Decline in creativity?
Posted by basswithabass on Tue, 09 Aug 2016 23:18:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I can't really agree that there's a decline in creativity, but I do certainly notice series are getting shorter. Creativity, I think, is on the rise if anything, especially with shows off the major networks. Bojack Horseman is one of my favorites right now, very creative indeed!