We used to love listening to this show when we were younger and now that New Year's eve is drawing nearer I was wondering if anyone still does this?

Does it still exist? I remember watching it when I was younger too, but back then music television shows actually played music. It's incredible how times have changed. Makes me feel old.

I didn't know that this still existed either. I'm really excited about this and will be tuning in this year just to see what's made the list.

I haven't heard that show In decades. I was actually hoping someone here would know if it still happens. Well, I guess I will find out soon enough. New year's eve is just around the corner.
