Subject: What's the best movies you've seen?
Posted by Wayne Parham on Mon, 01 Mar 2004 23:09:37 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Subject: Matrix
Posted by Wayne Parham on Mon, 01 Mar 2004 23:10:52 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Star Wars too. I know they're both old hat by now, but you gotta admit, they grabbed you when they first came out.

Subject: Re: "The Straight Story", "Lock, Stock and Two Smoking Barrels"
Posted by BillEpstein on Mon, 01 Mar 2004 23:33:22 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Richard Farnsworth, Sissy Spacek (she got a nomination for it) and DAvid Lynch, of all people,directing. A wonderful, quirky story of an old man and his tractor. One of my top ten of all time.And no Lynch 'Dwarf' Deus Ex Machina here.Lock, Stock is a great story line with a terrific ensemble of actors and best of all, kind of a sequel to "Snatch".

Subject: Re: What's the best movies you've seen?
Posted by Land Shark on Thu, 04 Mar 2004 19:41:26 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Some of my favorites are:Network - a timeless classic, every scene, every line has weight and meaning. Incredible acting. Played my DVD of it recently and was amazed how it still holds up.Dr. Strangelove - another movie that just gets better with age.The Godfather Parts 1 & 2 - 'nuff said!Porky's - juvenile, inmature, childish and just plain fun!Animal House - see Porky's.High Plains Drifter - My favorite western.The Lord Of The Rings Trilogy - epic filmaking, I never thought they would make as good as they turned out.Forbiden Planet - 1950s sci-fi that still holds up. Check out a young Leslie NielsenBest regards, Ralph

Subject: Re: What's the best movies you've seen?
Posted by wunhuanglo on Fri, 05 Mar 2004 00:35:41 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The first "Alien" - because of the way it brought reality into science fiction"Apocalypse Now" -

Natural" - truly epic themes of betrayal and redemption"Citizen Kane" - because of the way it foreshadowed movie making for the next 50 years

Subject: Oooops! Forgot one.
Posted by wunhuanglo on Fri, 05 Mar 2004 00:37:24 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

"Unforgiven" - did for westerns what "Alien" did for sci-fi