We just got a new entertainment center and it's so nice to have our components in a cabinet now (with glass doors) instead of sitting out. It's narrower than the old one, so we moved the front speakers closer together. I was afraid the imaging wouldn't be good, but actually it sounds better than it did, so it was a win-win.

Congrats on your new center! Cabinets are a must. I never understood why people would want their speakers or other components hanging out. It's too easy to trip over.

Hey that's great! I used to have mine on an open shelving system but I got a closed center as well, so the kids couldn't play with anything.
