Apparently our home is suffering from a tick infestation. I probably had 20 on me last year. In the past 24 hours everyone in the family except for my daughter has had at least one on them. Does anyone have any suggestions for getting rid of ticks?

Horrors, and I thought the termites we had were bad.

Oh man, I am so sorry. That sounds hideous! I hope by now you've gotten an exterminator to your house to take care of the problem.

We actually called our regular guy and he said there is nothing they can do because it takes a special license that no one around here has. We have been doing some research and we treated the yard, and we are going to do the inside of the house with boric acid. I just have to wait until my mom can take the kids for a day.

Wow! That stinks. I've never had a tick problem ever. We were at the beach last week and a girl that went with us had one on her stomach. It was freaky!
