Subject: Car radios  Posted by Equinom on Thu, 12 Apr 2012 03:54:21 GMT  View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I have to wonder sometimes, does anyone still listen to the good old car radios anymore? With so many other options for listening to music, I would think most people pass up the radios in their cars.

Subject: Re: Car radios  Posted by Sunflower on Sun, 28 Oct 2012 03:50:21 GMT  View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I like using the car radio because of the randomness factor. I agree that there are lots of other options, and most people will have a CD player or even a GPS that plays music, but I like the element of surprise I get from the radio.

Subject: Re: Car radios

Posted by Chicken on Tue, 30 Oct 2012 21:53:58 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message
I listen to the radio in the car all the time. It's easier to get a good variety of music that way than to set up a playlist and plug the mp3 player in.

Subject: Re: Car radios  Posted by Nymeria on Fri, 16 Nov 2012 17:14:45 GMT  View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I like to listen to the radio in the car. Sometimes I hear new songs or songs I haven't thought of in years and that's always a nice surprise.

Subject: Re: Car radios

Posted by Azuri on Sun, 25 Nov 2012 03:45:18 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message
Every time I get in my car I turn the radio on. The new country is what I keep on in my car. There's something about country music and driving that seems to "fit" somehow.

[^0]I listen to the radio every day. I don't have anything special in my car. There are times when I hook the iPod up and listen to that too. I love country music and there are 2 country stations on my local radio.

[^1]
[^0]:    Subject: Re: Car radios
    Posted by Rockstar on Wed, 28 Nov 2012 22:38:37 GMT
    View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

[^1]:    Page 2 of 2 ---- Generated from AudioRoundTable.com

