I came out this morning and found the 1/8" jack completely detached from my earbud cables. I blame the cat; she has a guilty look about her.

Doesn't that just send you over the moon? My cats have never destroyed anything valuable, but I've had a puppy or two I thought about strangling. One ate an $80 Mac power cord. This newest one just ate a pair of glasses, readers, so not expensive prescribed ones, but argh!

Of course the worst headphones incident we've ever had was when my son sucked the cord of his father's really nice headphones into the vacuum. There was no joy that day.
