Server maintenance is scheduled for Saturday June 19th. We hope there will be no disruption that prevents viewing posts here, and only a brief period when new posts cannot be made. We don't anticipate any other inconvenience.At this time, the system is fully functional. You can make replies and new posts during Saturday. On Sunday June 20th, there will be a brief period when new posts will not be allowed. We will place a message here to alert you of the beginning of this period, and then again, when it is over.Sorry for the inconvenience and thanks for your patience.

We have started server maintenance so posts have been disabled while the process completes. All content will be available for read-only and we will inform you here when new posts are re-enabled.

words to say about that: Virtual Redirection. I'd like to see that used during any subsequent maintenance events, so that there is no disruption of service (hint, hint).
