Does anyone know of any speakers that last long? I've had some of my speakers for at least 6 or 7 years. Has anyone had theirs longer?

I've had many of my loudspeakers for decades. They can last much longer, provided they are stored in a temperature and humidity controlled environment, e.g. indoors in your home.

Of course that makes sense. I never thought of that, but now that I do... I suppose exposing them to high temperatures or too low temperature could affect them negatively.
