I like all kinds of music. But, sometimes I think that the metal genre is just too loud for me. There are certain bands that really get to me. What about you?

I run to fast music because it helps with speed and motivation. Country music tends to depress me because the lyrics are almost always sad.

I mean, yea, some music play at different volumes, however if you think it's too loud you can turn it down. If you just don't like the screamo style, then it's just not for you.
