

---

Subject: Musicians under-appreciated and now appreciated

Posted by noodle on Tue, 29 Aug 2023 03:20:35 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

The Rolling Stones thread got me wondering: Are there artists you used to ignore or even flat-out dislike, and now you're singing quite a different tune about them?

Ringo used to be the Beatle I overlooked, for no good reason!

---

---

Subject: Re: Musicians under-appreciated and now appreciated

Posted by Wayne Parham on Tue, 29 Aug 2023 21:42:33 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

When I was a teenager, I would only listen to progressive rock like Yes, Genesis, Peter Gabriel and Gentle Giant. I liked the Moody Blues too, which is a little different but still somewhat cerebral. I wouldn't listen to anything else.

But later in life, I sort of relaxed and began to enjoy music that was catchy, even if simple.

Now I like a variety of different kinds of music.

---

---

Subject: Re: Musicians under-appreciated and now appreciated

Posted by Rusty on Wed, 30 Aug 2023 16:48:31 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

That's a good topic but I'll be dogged if I can think of an example. I've always had a wide range of musical interest. But I seem to have maintained my list of no way artists. I'll keep dredging the old noggin. Pretty messy in there.

---

---

Subject: Re: Musicians under-appreciated and now appreciated

Posted by noodle on Fri, 01 Sep 2023 02:46:11 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Wayne Parham wrote on Tue, 29 August 2023 16:42

I liked the Moody Blues too, which is a little different but still somewhat cerebral.

When I first heard "Nights in White Satin," I thought it was "Knights in White Satin." Most ineffective knights ever.

Back to the topic, I focus on drummers more than I ever have.

---