You don't have to swap drivers. Instead, you can swap the whole cabinet with a bigger, better unit.

Ok so which one would be more simpler? IS it easiar to swap drivers or spend money switching the unit?

Well, naturally, it's easier to swap the whole box. Then again, a driver swap just takes a few screws. The hard part is knowing what drivers will work best in the box you already have. If you want to do a little research, that might be an option. If not, swap the whole box.

I agree with Wayne, I wouldn't even waste my time with the screws, I would just swap the box. That is so much more easiar to me.

Are we talking about wasting time or wasting money here. Which one would be more sufficient on the pockets?
