So, where do we start? Personaly I would like to keep the cost of each project around $100, give or take some. I am isolated from others electronic buffs and need to maximize learning at minimal cost. It might be fun to pick projects that can be assembled when all is done (yeah, like this hobby ever ends) to have a very nice system. Scratch your head over it and I'll do the same. I really think this is going to be lots of fun.....Colin
