Subject: Re: Pull pin...
Posted by Steve on Tue, 17 May 2005 15:48:24 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

SETs can and do produce alot of odd harmonic distortion too. It depends on the topology, parts quality, and which tubes are used etc. There are also other major problems. I know, I design and build them.As you mentioned, PPs can have very low distortion without any feedback.I have to agree with Ash.. At 2004 CES, The Show, all I heard was fat with one or two thin sounding SETs. I visited those rooms several times, on different days listening to different selections.As you say, "I don't think gross and misleading generalizations do much to advance our collective state of enlightenment regarding the audio arts..."Steve