Nice PP presentation. From what I remember of your earlier work, it seems you can handle a soldering iron with the best of them. You do very nice work.If this all you screw up, you're in pretty good shape. I screwed the pooch on my top. I got in a hurry when I was drilling the holes for the tube sockets, and the drill bit wondered a bit - only a 1/4" or so. This would not have been a fatal error, but I had already drilled the holes for the mounting screws. DAMN.....Colin
