Subject: My ultimate 45 DRD amps took about 300 hours or so to really come alive.. Posted by John Chleapas on Fri, 19 Aug 2005 03:15:02 GMT View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

When they opened up and everything came together they are amazing. They always sounded good, but they went up a few notches to making me get up from the other room to see what had happened to my stereo. The soundstage and imaging got much wider. A good thing to me. I like my Cunningham 245 the best so far in them, but RCA and my other 45 all sound good. Did they ever make a poor sounding 45 tube? Good luck with your amps. John

Page 1 of 1 ---- Generated from AudioRoundTable.com