I used to talk with Stanley Chu when he was alive, and I think that was one of his amps. Brian Cherry worked with him then, and I believe he probably still supports the product. I'm sure it's just a matter of replacing the parts with newer, better components having the same value. But it sure couldn't hurt to contact Brian Cherry and ask him. He's a nice guy and is sure to offer his opinion, so try him at the link below.
