I'm thinking that the max rail voltages of +/- 17v might limit you to easy tubes like EL84,EL34. Otherwise you might need an additional gain stage. The swing needed for a 300b is pretty healthy, and an 845 much more so. Still, no reason it couldn't be used as a 1st stage in a 3 stage design. I'm not any kind of expert on this, so maybe someone else will chime in.
