During a move, the drive belt somehow got knocked off, and i have no idea where to put it back on. I went to online support, they we're morons and told me to look at the wrong page of the manual, looked at the manual, the diagram was of low quality and said nothing about the entire drive belt setup. They told me to ship it to their repair center and i don't have that kind of money. I was wondering if anyone could tell me how to put it back on?
