For audio in particular, I've located programs that have theirown forums so that if you get stuck, you can go to the forumsuch as the one for Goldwave and find out what others are doing. The guy at Goldwave took the specific suggestion to start the forum from his customers. That customer service promptedme to buy the program after using it in the trial version. Same deal with Audiograbber by Jackie Frank, except AG has gonefreeware since I purchased it. I don't regret paying for the prog.
