Subject: New High End Music Server
Posted by FredT on Tue, 25 Jul 2006 12:00:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Slim Devices has announced the introduction of the "Transporter", a new $2K high end music server. Many of the people who visit this forum have already heard their $350 "Squeezebox". I heard Skip Pack's at the GPAF and ordered one for myself as soon as I got home. The squeezebox sound might not be considered "high end" by audiophiles who listen to $3K+ SACD players, but to my ears it's better than the $800 Arcam I'm familiar with. Given the specs they are publishing, the Transporter should beam listeners up to a new level of listening enjoyment.
The "Transporter"