Subject: Re: Difference between studio monitors and home speakers?
Posted by GarMan on Tue, 06 Jan 2004 12:50:21 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Wayne, I would have to argue that with your point that pro speakers are usually higher in price. When I was flipping through the product review issue of the recording magazine, many of the monitors listed were coming in between $2K to $5K per pair. A little expensive for my budget, but very reasonable compared to some of the "audiophile" home speakers that are out there.Anyone out there using pro studio monitors for home use? Any recommendations?gar.