Ok, as much as I hate to do this, I feel it is the best thing to do at the time. We are postponing the DIY2005 Orlando event that was scheduled for this Saturday, the 3rd of September.I/we will work in the coming weeks to nail down a new date for the event so please be patient and we will just go from here and see how things pan out.I know there are several folks wanting to still do something but I feel I have too much of an obligation to those who can't make it for reasons beyond their control, plus I feel I have an obligation to the vendors sponsoring the event...giving them the "full monty" they deserve.I will be notifying everyone involved so far, participants and vendors, via e-mail of our plans here and see what pans out for a different event in the not-to-distant future.Please feel free to e-mail me or call me with comments or suggestions.Chuck
