I ran up the road to the local Shack and picked up a set of the 10' pairs. Decent cables I guess. Got the home and am questioning the connections on both the speakers and amp. Neither the speakers or amp have what you would call 5 way connectors. Just a small screw sticking out. I just slid the pins up against the screw and tightened it down on both. But the connections seem kinda weak and I hate to tighten them down anymore for fear of breaking the screws off.
