Subject: Re: Just built an attic subwoofer...
Posted by Wayne Parham on Wed, 30 Aug 2006 15:00:37 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Wow! Looks great!May I make a suggestion? It looks like you are using two identical woofers. If that's the case, reverse-mount and reverse-connect one of them. That forms a push-pull configuration which reduces distortion. It works by having one driver push while the other pulls. That way asymetrical motion and the distortion it causes will be cancelled in summing.
 Info on push-pull drive