Even high quality digital cam photos will do. Derk shot several rolls of 35mm film of all of the rooms, and I was kind of counting on those but none of them turned out except the Locus Designs room. I took a bunch of pictures with a cheapie digital cam, but really intended those for just a way to get photos online fast during the weekend. I had hoped to replace or suppliment those images with high quality shots, so if any of you have photos of the entire event, please post them or make them available.
