I used to work in a recording studio part time years ago, and I found it takes time to get your ears listening to a system with a totally flat response, but once you get used to it, it's not so bad you can really tell on other systems that have just the BOOM and HISS to them and no mids detail. On my home system, my systems ran flat with maybe 3-6db boost on the lower freq (40-70hz) and it sounds good at least to me anyway. But for home let your ears be your guide on what sounds best to you, those are your built in instruments.
