Subject: Hyperbolic superlatives
Posted by Bill Fitzmaurice on Tue, 10 Aug 2004 18:55:12 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

These glowing terms are often found in two places: in the advertising copy cooked up to convince someone to buy a speaker, and in the mind of someone who fell for the hype, spent more than he should have, and is trying to convince himself it was money well spent. The more subjective and less objective the terms used to recommend a speaker, or any product for that matter, the closer one should investigate that product before buying, IMHO.