I think a super tweeter will definately be one of those things I'll explore in the future. My plan is to stay with the two way and enjoy them for a while. One of the reasons I didn't build the compression into the same cabinet as the woofer is to give myself the flexible for future re-configurations, such as the super-tweeter and even a midrange horn. This will be my last speaker project for a very long time, but I think it'll serve as an excellent foundation to build on.Gar.
