

---

Subject: Re: Do more sensitive drivers offer less distortion at "normal" listening levels?

Posted by Skip Pack on Thu, 28 Oct 2004 16:19:21 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

There's a very interesting article in this Month's Sterophile by Keith Howard on Doppler induced distortion in speakers. This adds a wrinkle on the asymmetry-based harmonic distortion that Wayne is talking about. I have no means, insufficient knowledge, nor the time to separate these effects and tie them to real performance, but it all makes sense to me.

---