See link below for a list of high efficiency speakers. One warning: the words cheap and high efficiency pre-builts do not go together. You might look at Omega or Pi. If you do not plan to build yourself, seek out a local cabinet maker. You might be surprised at how affordable boxes can be made. Also, is there a local votech in your area? You can usually contact the shop teacher and see if they will do custom projects. It's good practice for the students and you could wind up with nice cabs for next to nothing.....Colin
