Subject: Re: horn surfaces Posted by Criminy on Thu, 13 Jan 2005 03:50:25 GMT View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sorry, I really do understand your bias towards directivity control; didn't mean to distract with the mention of loading. Let me rephrase the question. At what point does the wavelength become larger than the waveguide? When it is larger than the diameter of the mouth? than the circumference of the mouth? than the axial length of the waveguide? None of the above?

Page 1 of 1 ---- Generated from AudioRoundTable.com