I'm sure I could have a better and more meaningful conversation about how a given speaker sounds with a musician then an engineer.Ya know, it may be just me, but I think I'd get greater joy listening to a speaker that a musician with no engineering background has "tweeked" to perfection then listening to a speaker that an engineer with no musical talant or experience has "tweeked" to his version of perfection. Of course, someone who is both musician and engineer may come up with the best one of all.Dave
