Very informative. I wouldn't feel bad with either set, just lucky to have both right now. I originally got the 416s for a reflex 4Pi, but later got jbl woofers, so I tried them in the A-7s while one of the 515s was out for a recone. Both really sound fine. GM, I think it may be the additional bass of the 416 that I like, and my "unequalized" 515s, but the difference is slight. When I first removed the 515 to send it out, I stuck in the 416, and for a couple days ran them like that! Still sounded good. I doubt I could A-B them and do any better than probability, I'm getting ready to switch the 416s out and reinstall the 515s. A little workout to be sure.
