Subject: Re: Two way- conventional and coaxial
Posted by GM on Fri, 21 Apr 2006 04:45:55 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Greets!Most compression drivers have a strong HF standing waves in its phase plug's channels just like in a BR's vent, varying depending on design, so you get a null, then a peak before the final roll off in a plane wave tube measurement. How it performs attached to a horn depends on its design.GM