Subject: Re: Bigger ports=playground for Bill's cats!
Posted by Wayne Parham on Mon, 09 Oct 2006 19:07:36 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The speaker with the biggest port I have has a 5" hole. That's just large enough for cats. Kittens would have no problem getting in. Fortunately, the port is in the rear so I can put it back up against the wall. Not completely to restrict airflow, but enough to keep the cat from investigating. I always wondered how long it would take to realize a cat was inside, if it jumped in without my seeing. Probably find out pretty quick after playing something.