
Subject: Re: You can boil'm, fry'm, broil'm, gumbo'm, saute'm.....

Posted by BillEpstein on Fri, 23 Jan 2004 00:01:59 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

My idea was to build 6 pairs of dipoles. But I looked at arrays and read that Bessel are far, far, far field things. Don't know what a Bessel is and wiring up 12 8 ohm drivers to achieve 8 ohms total will require live naked resistors! I think I'm going to make them test beds for different doping recipes, no, not Lasix but shellac, violin varnish, Dammar, etc. Because, believe it or not, the lowly Fostex 103E's are sounding fabulous now and getting better. And I haven't even built the second pair of boxes with the tapers. Then of course, that's all relative because the big system is still on top and the more I think about it, the Theatre 4's are still a benchmark for me.
